Halloween

Halloween is defined as the evening preceding All Hallows or All Saints' Day. Well there were certainly no saints in the Sales office at Blantyre on Fri 2nd Nov when we all dressed up and celebrated Halloween with an array of characters from Tweety-pie and Wallyman to the naughty devil and a tavern's wench to Edward Scissorhands!

Dunking for apples and our take on treacle scones (but with doughnuts) was the concoction of the day with trick n' treats provided by everyone including a 10-verse song by pirate John Dick! It was only fitting that we had a runway show to show off our wares, and in the case of Sharon the Tavern Wench King, it was her Jugs!

First Prize went to Edward Scissorhands (aka Nick Wagner) with second and third going to Captain Frank "The Sparrow" Smith and Tweety-pie (aka David Devine), although something has to be said for our Telesales Manager as Batman!

The day was complete with a pumpkin competition exhibiting our natural artistic talents.
